WE NOMINATE

Wilbur Willis Swingle, one of the truly distinguished teacher-scientists in Princeton's modern era, whose contributions to the development of some of the country's outstanding research biologists have inspired the "Swingle Convocation" here this Saturday at the Graduate College and the Princeton Inn. In recognition of the 68-year old Swingle's retirement in June from the University Faculty, following 30 years of service as a full professor, his former graduate students—without his approval and until only recently operating in secrecy—have arranged a program accentuating his achievements in the area of endocrinology.

Internationally recognized for his pioneering success in isolating a highly purified and potent extract of the adrenal cortex, the life-saving qualities of which have been fully tested in Addisons' Disease, this soft-spoken native of Warrensburg, Mo., has been responsible for training more Princeton doctoral candidates in biology than any other single teacher in the history of a remarkable department. It is the enthusiasm of these 25 "doctors," added to that of the others he trained earlier in his career at Yale and Iowa, which will produce a weekend gathering of well over 100 "Swingle-philes."

Indicative of Swingle's standing as a research scientist and teacher was the experience several years back of a major pharmaceutical company in launching a new and special fund for the advancement of research in the fields of biology, microbiology and chemistry. The firm made two individual grants of $10,000 each—one to the publicity-shy Swingle and the other to a younger scientist, now a section head of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., who some 15 years earlier had written his Princeton senior thesis in Swingle's cramped ground-level quarters in Guyot Hall.

Swingle, the author of more than 200 published research papers dealing with problems in endocrinology, circulatory failure, shock and related subjects, has in recent years been carrying forward research studies with the support of such organizations as the National Science Foundation and the N. J. Heart Association. However, in his after-retirement future, there will be little change in his daily routine, for he will continue to conduct a long-range program in adrenal research under a grant from the United States Public Health Service.

An alumnus of the University of Kansas where he taught prior to serving with the World War I Army, Swingle completed his graduate training at Princeton. He was a member of the Yale Faculty from 1921 until 1926 and was directing Iowa's Department of Zoology at the time he was called to Princeton in 1929. It was during the three years in Iowa City that he met and married Alice Sullivan, attractive and able scientist, who since 1929 has been full-time research assistant of the third great biologist to hold Princeton's Henry Fairfield Osborn Professorship.

For his accomplishments as one of the country's outstanding endocrinologists; for carefully integrating his far-reaching research efforts with the kind of "living teaching" that leads young men of science to describe him as a teacher "we have come to know and revere"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

SEWER PROBLEMS OVERFLOW

In Township. A combination of factors, including impossible soil conditions, increased population and the use of outmoded septic systems, has brought the Township sewer situation to a point of crisis.

On March 31, Calvin Schofield, Township engineer, and John Mount, Township Committeeman, went to Philadelphia to find out whether Federal funds might be available to meet the problem. They talked with the Federal Community Facilities Agency to learn whether the Township could borrow non-interest-bearing Federal money for planning sewer systems.

They also explored the possibility of outright Federal grants which are available for trunk lines and the extension of sewer treatment system if water pollution is involved. (The Federal deal: 30 percent of the cost up to $250,000).

Last Saturday, the Township Committee, meeting in special session, appropriated $4,000 for aerial contour maps of the northern part of the municipality. These photographs, which must be made while trees are still bare, will give the Township engineers the fine detail they need to plan sewers (one to two-foot elevations, instead of the standard five-foot contour interval).

And there is pollution in the Township.

"Septic systems are outmoded," is the flat statement of Township Health Officer, Mrs. Marcella Farley, who presented to the Board of Health an elaborately - documented photographic report to back up the resolution the Board turned over to Township Committee. It declares that septic systems be regarded as outdated, and the sewers be laid as soon as possible.

The problem concerns the pollution of the whole Stony-Brook-Millstone area. The Herrontown section ("and that's an emergency area," said Mrs. Farley) drains into a ditch, then into Harry's Brook, then into Lake Carnegie, then into the Millstone. The Hillside Road section — "and that's a second emergency area," Mrs. Farley has stated drains into a small brook which eventually reaches the Millstone, and Mercer Road drains into Stony Brook. All of these areas would probably come under any Federal grant, according to Mr. Mount.

Soil the Big Problem. The chief drainage and septic problem seems to be the soil. As every Princeton householder knows, the soil is either good hard clay or good hard rock, both impermeable.

One house owner on Heather Lane has five feet of pure clay (and seepage from his septic tank all around his house.) Another householder installed his septic system over solid rock. Township officials realize that the existence of clay and rock presumably will make a sewer system expensive to blast out.

A second problem is the increase in Township population.

"The average family uses 500 gallons of water a day," Mrs. Farley calculates. "You figure out how many families there are and you draw that much water out of the water table. You create a vacuum and polluted water flows right in. It's even possible, in the Herrontown area, that the underlying rock strata are completely polluted."

The problem of outmoded septic systems is also a knotty one. On Hillside Avenue, septic systems installed 30 years ago for a few houses are now used by many. These septic tanks empty into a storm drain that flows into a so-called "potable watershed." Every well in that area was found by health officials to be polluted.

Three Herrontown wells are polluted, one is on the way to pollution and one has been decontaminated. In the Princeton Pike area around Quaker Road, health officials found last summer that every well was polluted. All these wells have been made potable by chlorination and the individual house-owner does his own chlorinating.

Drainage Difficulties. In the Ridgeview Circle section, householders are plagued by both drainage and septic overflow. They have tried to help the situation by digging trenches, but this has merely channeled the flow into Mountain Lake which will eventually become polluted, health officials say.

In the Brookstone development off Rosedale, there is a problem health officers call "gross drainage." Water pumped away by sump pump has formed a swamp which septic material cannot drain through. So it stays on the surface, making more swamp. On Heather Lane, drainage sweeps down from the high prop-

A Tribute to the Veterinary Medical Association OF NEW JERSEY ON THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS FOUNDING

During the second week in April, the Veterinary Medical Association of New Jersey will celebrate the 75th anniversary of its founding. The practice of veterinary medicine is an ancient and honorable profession and is most certainly motivated by the high ideals of the healing arts.

Today in New Jersey, over four hundred of these men and women go about their daily tasks providing an essential part of the public health protection afforded to the people of our State, both through their guardianship of animal health against disease, foreign and domestic, and through their vigilance in safeguarding the wholesomeness of human foods moving through distributive channels. During this anniversary celebration, Princeton is playing host to the New Jersey Association while it holds its annual meeting here.

We would all do well to pay tribute to this outstanding group of practitioners. Join with us in congratulating and commending, and sending our best wishes for the continuation of the excellent services heretofore provided by the Association and its membership to the citizens of the State.

erties right on to Mount Rose Road.

"This is a question of public health," Mrs. Farley believes, "and steps should be taken as soon as possible to extend sewer trunk lines. I hope we don't have to wait until pollution has caused serious trouble."

The Township Committee hopes to complete work this year on the more serious pollution problems and has been making plans to extend the lines to such areas as Herrontown.

Incidentally, to ascertain whether a piece of swampy land is septic overflow, Mrs. Farley introduces a fluorescent yellow dye into the septic system. Then she goes outdoors and waits for it to ooze to the surface. In too many sections of Princeton Township today, she doesn't have long to wait.

PERSONALITIES

Miss Bessie C. Buckman, 102 Moore Street, whose example of driving 45 years without a violation or an accident has served to publicize the "Safe Driving Week" to be sponsored this month by the Student Council at Princeton High School. For details, plus a picture of Miss Buckman and her 1932 car, see page 20.

Dr. Stephen K. Bailey, 106 Fitz-Randolph Road, who this week was appointed professor of political science at Syracuse University. A former Rhodes Scholar and once (1952-54) a "professor turned politician" while he served as mayor of Middletown, Conn., Dr. Bailey will bring five years of distinguished service as a member of Princeton's faculty to a close when his new appointment becomes effective on September 1.

Aileen Baker, 207 Edgerstoune Road, and Robert Rugg, 02 Overbrook Drive, who next summer will join the ever-growing list of Princeton students partaking in the American Field Service international goodwill program when they share the life and customs of families abroad for three months. Miss Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, is a junior at Miss Fine's School; Mr. Rugg, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rugg, is a junior at Princeton High.

She was treated at Princeton Hospital for a cut eyebrow, bruised left arm and left eyelid and bruises on her knees . . . going 25 m.p.h., she said . . . Township police issued a summons.

Alfans G. Franz of Hackensack, chef at Lahiere's, was driving on Washington Road at 2 a.m. last Monday . . . he began to veer toward a car coming his way, weaved closer and closer and finally forced the car toward the curb, almost crashing into it head-on . . . it turned out to be a Township patrol car, much to Mr. Franz' chagrin . . . he flunked a drunkometer test and was released on $250 bail for appearance before Magistrate Louis Gerber next Tuesday.

A learner driver, Miss Mabel McKendry, Princeton Inn, turned into Quaker Road from Port Mercer and didn't quite make it . . . one post, four fence rails.

Harry Parks of Mt. Lucas Road and Norman Fowler, Jr., 41 Moran, sideswiped each other last Sunday at the Mt. Lucas Road curve south of Poor Farm Road . . . summonses were given to both.

Hot rod? . . . car belonging to Miss Julia Toth, Princeton Junction, caught fire in the Borough Parking lot on Witherspoon and Spring last Wednesday . . . Borough patrolmen put it out . . . damage was so extensive the car had to be towed away.

WHAT'S NEW? An Ethical Culture Society is being formed in Princeton . . . further information in "News of the Churches" on page 27.

Stiff dose . . . the East Windsor Township Committee passed an emergency resolution last Wednesday, increasing its contribution to Princeton Hospital by $3300 . . . they had been giving $500, and would now like to up their donation to $3805 . . . the increase goes beyond the bounds set by the state Division of Local Government and must wait for a state OK before it can go into effect . . . Hightstown reportedly is considering a house-to-house drive to raise the additional funds required by Princeton Hospital for the care of indigents.

About 138,000 copies of the Mercer County phone book will be distributed starting next Wednesday . . . this is 7,000 more than last year . . . the new directory will contain 99,80 listings, more or less, and will wear a new gray cover.

WHAT'S AHEAD!

In the Borough. The combustible question of parking meters in the station parking area will flare up again next Tuesday when Borough Council discusses the subject at its regular meeting. It seems likely that Council will plan to introduce an ordinance at its May meeting, with a possible June hearing to follow.

Also on Tuesday night, Council will accept the report of the Joint Recreation Committee, which the Township Committee will have received the night before. Council will also announce bidding for Borough gasoline and motor oil purchases, and will invite proposals on fuel oil purchases and oil burner service.

Residents of Morven Street prefer "Morven Place," and it is possible that an ordinance may be introduced on Tuesday night to change the street name officially. Council may also discuss the Township's request for the extension of Prospect Avenue from Cedar Lane to the Township line.

The raffle applications of St. Paul's Church and the United Fund will also be acted on, and complete action on appointments to Borough boards will be taken.

In the Township. In Township Hall on Monday night, Committeemen will read several letters asking for stricter controls on dogs, and will tell letter-writers and dog-owners just what the ordinance on dogs covers.

Bids will be received on the nine-mile road resurfacing program that the Township will undertake in 1959 and three new public works ordinances will be introduced: the construction of a sewer from Riverside school to Woodside Lane; the construction of part of Prospect from Riverside Drive West to Riverside Drive East and the construction of Riverside East from the Wiltshire Development to the Kingston Road.

The Township Committee will also present the names of persons who have agreed to serve in an advisory capacity to the State Disaster Control organization. The appointments will be made jointly with the Borough. No more than 15 may be named, according to the disaster-control plan.

The Township Committee is also expected to announce that it may present at its May meeting its thoughts on the adoption of an amended building code which lays more stress on fire prevention than the 1949 code now in force. A new fire prevention code may come up for consideration at the May or June meeting.

NEITHER MAN NOR BEAST ESCAPES CLEAN-UP WEEK: Princetonians were improving the appearance of their town this week to mark the annual Clean-Up Campaign and the idea spread fast. "Wolf," getting his spring cleaning from Lietta and Larry Kahn, took it with the patience that comes from leading a dog's life. The youngsters are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kahn, 38 Wiggins Street. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

FIREY WEEKEND

Three General Alarms Sound. Princeton's volunteer fire companies were kept busy last weekend as the general alarm sounded three times. Of the three, only one was a serious fire.

The first blaze reported, at the home of Irwin Weiss, 248 Moore Street, was kept under control and the alarm was cancelled before most engines left their houses. On the last alarm, a stove fire at 243 State Road, the flames were out by the time the firemen arrived. Only the Sunday afternoon blaze in a dormitory on the University campus actually required the firemen's services.

Gutted by fire was the living room of a second-floor Blair Hall suite. The fire, probably caused by a cigarette, according to head proctor Michael Kopliner, spread to the attic and firemen were forced to chop a hole in the roof to get at it.

Frank Gutmann, a 20-year old senior from Farmingdale, discovered the flames and attempted to put it out with a fire extinguisher, singing his hands in the process. Although the University does not have a monetary estimate, water damage in the room below and smoke damage in the bedrooms of the suite were reported.

Two members of the First Aid Unit suffered casualties in the fire. Elmer Rodweller was hospitalized with smoke poisoning and a sprained knee and Raymond Wadsworth with an injured neck which he sustained when he tripped and struck his neck on the fire truck. Both are in Princeton Hospital.

Reports of the fire at the Weiss home were turned in about 10 a.m. Saturday. Police found the fire on the side porch of the house under control and informed the fire companies. The blaze was confined to an overstuffed chair, some trash and turpentine on the porch, according to police.

The stove fire was reported by Mrs. Felix Oppenheime herself, but the Rev. Arthur M. Byers had the fire out by the time the firemen arrived. Mr. Byers, who lives next door to the Oppenheimes, said he used his fire extinguisher and turned off the main fuse for the stove.

the Board of Education in voting against having one of its members serve on the Planning Board was made this week by School Board President Graham Rohrer.

"Some people seem to have misunderstood our actual position," Mr. Rohrer said. "It's not a question of our not wanting any representative. It's a question of how the board is to be represented. We feel that it is inadvisable to have a School Board member serve on the Planning Board, but we do want a delegate."

The Board of Education's resolution prohibiting any of its members from serving "in that capacity" as a member of the Planning Board was adopted at its March meeting two weeks ago. The action followed a period of a year during which the School Board's chosen representative, W. Landon Dennison, attended Planning Board meetings but was not officially appointed by the mayor. Mayor Male said last week that he withheld appointment of Mr. Dennison because he felt the representative should be a member of the School Board.

PASTORS BUY SHARES

In Housing Firm. A group of 11 members of the Princeton Pastors Association have invested, as individuals, in the common stock of Modern Community Developers, Inc., 84 Nassau Street, it was announced this week. MCD is a national firm dedicated to integrated housing.

"We do not take this step as a symbolical demonstration but rather as practical action to end segregation in housing," said Rev. Dr. Richard H. Luecke, pastor of Lutheran Church of the Messiah and president of the Pastors' Association. "It is time that men of good will of all faiths get busy to reach ethical goals such as equal housing opportunity for all, through non-church agencies formed for these purposes."

A total of seven faiths are represented in the group of 11. They include: Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. John R. Bodo, First Presbyterian; Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, Trinity Episcopal; Rev. David L. Crawford, Second Presbyterian; Rev. Kenneth Dannenhauer, Calvary Baptist; Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, Princeton Jewish Center.

Also, Rev. Straughan L. Gettler, Princeton Unitarian Church; Rev. Henry W. Haps, Kingston Presbyterian; the Rev. Dr. Luecke; Rev. Charles W. Marker, Princeton Methodist, and Rev. William T. Parker, First Baptist. The Rev. Mr. Anderson is chairman of the executive committee of Modern Community Developers, Inc.

MCD is dedicated to combating residential segregation through a three-phase program: 1) Lending funds and guidance to builders and groups interested in building integrated housing; 2) Building integrated housing itself where necessary; and 3) Buying land and apartment houses for integrated living.

FIVE LOSE LICENSES

In Princeton Area. Four residents of the Princeton area have been listed by the State Department of Motor Vehicles among those who have lost their driver's licenses for various offenses.

Leo L. Lent, Jr., 34, 108 Magnolia Lane, has been convicted for speeding on three occasions and was given a 30-day revocation. Passing a red traffic light, improper passing and two speeding convictions cost David J. Livingstone, 42, 17 Oakland Road, his driving privileges for a similar period.

If April showers bring May grass, that's what the Weather Man has in mind for the next 48 hours. Rain is likely both Thursday and Friday, he reported, casting one eye at his own lawn-mowing problems.

Could be fair for the weekend, according to the long-range prediction. Temperatures about normal for the four-day period moving upward gradually on Saturday and Sunday.

Alfred Perna, 22, 401 Franklin Avenue, lost his license for three months following convictions for a one-way street violation, careless driving and two stop-sign violations. Asa S. Bushnell 3d, 2769 Fuschini, 17, 25 Witherspoon revocation following a conviction for speeding ten miles over a 50-mile limit.

In Princeton Township, Magistrate Louis R. Gerber imposed a 60-day revocation on Joseph A. Fuschini, 17, 25 Witherspoon Street. The charge was careless driving.

SHORT SESSION

Three Fined in Borough. In a short session of Borough Court Monday night, Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. imposed three sentences.

Fined were: J. W. Sutton, 38, Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, $15 for driving an unsafe vehicle; Charles B. Price, 34, 10 Bayard Lane, $15 for a noisy muffler, and R. M. Maniquis, 95 Winthrop Road, Nixon, $10 for not having his license in his possession.

QUICKLE HEADS PBA

Will Serve Second Time. Loar Quickle has been elected to head the Princeton Business Association for the next 12 months, succeeding Edward A. Chepossey. John C. Yeoman will continue in office as secretary-treasurer.

The PBA has also named four vice-presidents to take charge of specific fields of its activities. They are R. L. Lenhart, public relations; Theodore Reed, credit file; John Houghton, membership, and Benjamin Brown, planning.

The association held its annual dance Saturday at the Nassau Inn. Approximately 170 members and guests attended.

A CAPITOL TOUR

Seniors to Visit Washington. Some 172 Princeton High School seniors will make the annual three-day pilgrimage to the Nation's Capitol next week. Scheduled to leave at 7:21 Monday morning, the group will return after a packed three days of sightseeing at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Before arriving in Washington, the seniors will visit Annapolis, where they will see the Old State House and the Naval Academy. In Washington they will make the traditional rounds of the FBI, Department of Justice, Archives, Washington Monument, Supreme Court, Lincoln Memorial, Botanical Gardens, Jefferson Memorial, Arlington National Cemetery, Mount Vernon, the Capitol and the White House.

Added attractions for the almost-graduated PHS students include a theatre party Monday night and a cruise down the Potomac Tuesday night. While in Washington the group will stay at the Hotel Raleigh and do all sightseeing by bus.

SPRING SHOW PLANNED

By Community Players. The Princeton Community Players will stage their spring production Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18, at the Playmill. Entitled "Three For One," the show will include three shor tplays: "The Lesson," directed by Mrs. Paul Fussell; "The Merry Death," directed by Mrs. Byron Keene, and "Riders To The Sea," directed by Miss Nanci Haughton.

These three plays were selected for public production by John F. Becker from among a series of six staged privately during the year by members of the Players who participated in a Director's Workshop which he conducted. Mr. Becker, a television and motion picture director in New York, has staged many of the Players' productions, including the recent "Under Milkwood" by Dylan Thomas.

Selection of the plays for spring production was made at last Thursday's meeting of the Players, held at the Alexander Street Playmill. Special entertainment that evening was provided by a barbershop quartet from Princeton Theological Seminary.

Members of the quartet included Rev. Arlo Duba, first tenor; Rev. James Memmott, second tenor; Daniel Larsen, baritone, and Robin Roberts, bass. The Rev. Mr. Duba, an instructor at the Seminary, is studying for his Th.D. degree there. The Rev. Mr. Memmott, a Seminary graduate, is the pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Freehold. Mr. Larsen and Mr. Roberts are Seminary students.

CAST OF 35 REHEARSING

A Savoyard Production. There will be a total of 35 persons in the cast of "Iolanthe," the Spring production of the Savoyerds, Princeton University's Gilbert and Sullivan troupe. The show will be given April 24, 25 and May 2 at McCarter Theatre.

Munroe Wade and Mel Olson are directing the production. Heading the cast will be Mrs. George S. Bent, Lee H. Bristol, Jr., and Sheldon Simon.

NEW BALLET SCHEDULED

By Aparri Dancers. The Aparri Dancers and 60 students of the Aparri School of Dance will present a new ballet Saturday evening, May 2, at Princeton High School. The ballet will be open to the public and tickets will be sold at the door. Proceeds will go to the Aparri School Scholarship Fund.

The ballet, entitled "A Fantasy in Four Moods and Five Cases," is based on Latin grammar and dedicated to the Latin Department of Princeton High School. It follows the adventures of First Person Singular up to the appearance of First Person Plurel and the Grand Promenade of The Tenses. The idea and choreography are by Milk Gibbons, with music by Bartok, Hindesmith and Prokofieff.

The ballet will also be presented April 30 at the annual Latin Tea for Latin students and their parents.

DUE AT THE DRIVE-IN: Jane Mansfield stars in "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," to be seen at Lawrence Drive-In Sunday Through Tuesday.

MAY PROGRAMS SET

By Ballet Society. Two shows, "Hansel and Gretel" and "Graduation Ball," will make up the Spring production of Princeton Ballet Society. The production will be given Thursday afternoon, May 7, as part of the Borough PTA's Children's Entertainment Series, and again Friday night, May 8, for adults. Both presentations will be staged at McCarter Theatre.

Audree Estey, director of the Ballet Society, will be in charge. The younger dancers of the Society will perform in "Hansel and Gretel" while the older dancers will do "Graduation Ball." Serving as partners for the older girls in "Graduation Ball" will be dancers from the Triangle Club of Princeton University and other men dancers of the community.

Mrs. Leigh B. Harris 2nd is co-ordinator of costumes for the two shows. Members of the costume committee include Mrs. George N. Barrie, designer; Mrs. Max H. Mesner, chairman of costumes for "Graduation Ball," and Mrs. F. Colson Cunningham and Mrs. Lawrence Thompson, co-chairmen of costumes for "Hansel and Gretel."

Other committee heads are: Tickets, Mrs. William R. Burthron and Mrs. H. F. Calcote; publicity, Mrs. Arthur W. Colley; patrons, Mrs. George Webster; programs, Mrs. J. Thomas James and Mrs. John W. Brown 4th; properties, Mrs. George F. Bush and Mrs. John B. Nelson; make-up, Mrs. Richard G. Woodbridge, and dressing rooms, Mrs. Joseph R. Wood and Mrs. Felix A. Perone.

Rehearsals are being conducted in the Ballet Society's temporary quarters in the basement of McCarter Theatre. The interruption of rehearsals which came with the closing of Rose Cottage was brief, thanks to friends of the society who worked with Frank Teplin of Princeton University to get the basement quarters in shape for the Society's use for the remainder of this year.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Sound and the Fury (April 9-14) is sHollywood's most successful effort to date to make cinematic sense of the thought-strewn ramblings of novelist William Faulkner. The theme, as usual, is the decadent South and scripters Irving Ravetch and Harriet Frank Jr. have a convincing story to tell about it. No one should be surprised or offended if the Ravetch-Frank story and characters bear little resemblance to those of Faulkner. Such are the ways of Hollywood, and the film's power is not diminished by its variance from the original.

The hero is Yul Brynner, who wears his (or somebody's) hair for this one. An adopted member of the fading Compson clan, Yul sets out to redeem the family name. His first redemption project is his ward, Joanne Woodward, whom he finds more decorative than decorous. She soon revolts against his moralizing and makes it clear she does not choose to be reformed. Her feelings toward Brynner, however, undergo a subtle change after she becomes romantically entangled with a carnival roustabout, Stuart Whitman, who swindles her of all her possessions.

Both Brynner and Miss Woodward are excellent, but the most gripping performance is turned in by Margaret Leighton, a British actress, who plays Miss Woodward's mother. She deserted Miss Woodward at birth and her pathetic attempts to right the wrong provide the film's best scene. Director Martin Ritt, who also directed Faulkner's "The Long, Hot Summer," has paced the picture with intelligence. Recommended.

COMING TO PLAYHOUSE: Susan Hayward will be seen in "Thunder in the Sun," scheduled for Playhouse April 19-21.

The Black Orchid (April 15-18) is the latest in that distinguished line of pictures in which someone tries to make an honest woman out of Sophia Loren. In this case, the someone is Anthony Quinn, and the film shares several obvious advantages with its predecessors. In the first place, if Miss Loren is to be made honest, she must begin by being reasonably dishonest, and these early scenes provide a good opportunity to witness her as Hollywood's version of an untamed female.

Furthermore, the process of reformation can never be a wholly pleasant one for the reformee, and this enables Miss Loren to pout intermittently. If you haven't yet had the experience of seeing Miss Loren pout, it's about time you switched off the TV and familiarized yourself with this particular natural phenomenon.

At the opening of the plot, a term we shall use for want of a more descriptive one, we find Miss Loren pouting furiously. She is guilt-ridden because her desire for material wealth has driven her husband to a life of crime and an untimely demise. What's more, her 12-year-old son has been committed to a reform school because of his inability to reconcile himself with the Western legal code.

At this juncture she is introduced to Quinn, a frighteningly moral widower with a grown daughter. As Quinn is trying to rehabilitate Miss Loren, we learn of the rocky romance between his daughter and her fiance. For change of pace, Miss Loren's son runs away from the reformatory when it becomes apparent that Quinn will not allow her to marry a gangster friend of her late spouse. Such an alliance would have provided a legally acceptable home for the boy and ended his confinement. In the climactic scene, Miss Loren faces Quinn's daughter in an emotion-packed effort to find a way out of everybody's problems. The film is in VistaVision.

THE GARDEN

Walt Disney Program (April 9-11). The feature film in a weekend of Disney at the Gardens is "White Wilderness," which is accompanied by a short based on the familiar "Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

"White Wilderness" is an interesting camera study of the land that stretches northward from the timber line of Canada and Alaska to the fringes of the polar ice cap. Mr. Disney's typically fascinating shots of little-known animal life dominate the film, which was made during the bitterest part of the Arctic winter as well as in the brief weeks when summer comes and the snow gives way to the tundra. Included in the "cast" are huge polar bears, indolent walruses, wolves preying on stragglers in herds of caribou, and packs of lemmings — small rodent-like creatures filmed in a headlong flight toward the Arctic Sea.

Picturesque scenery abounds, while the subject matter presented ranges from the humorous to the dramatic. "White Wilderness" is one of Mr. Disney's True-Life Adventure series and takes its place with the best that he has produced in this entertainment category.

In line with its new policy of devoting Monday nights to the showing of topnotch films from past years, the Garden will present "The Rose Tattoo," an Academy Award winner, on April 13, and "Three Coins in the Fountain," a pleasant and colorful romance, on April 20.

Mitsou (April 14-16) is an amiable little French film based on a Colette novel. Subtitled "How Understanding Comes to Young Girls," the picture is set in Paris during World War I. A Music Hall star wants to learn how to behave like a lady for the sake of a young officer to whom she is attracted.

She has been keeping company with an elderly and gallant gentleman who, though he hates to lose her, resigns himself to the role of her personal Henry Higgins. The featured players are Fernand Gravey, Francois Guerin and the very attractive Danielle Delorme. Jacqueline Audry directed from a screenplay by Pierre LaRoche. The film is in Eastman color.

Dine with Great Paintings . . .

This month our dining room gallery is showing paintings by the late B. J. O. Nordfeldt, internationally known artist who died in 1955. Nordfeldt was especially noted for the large, sweeping composition of his seascapes and religious pictures, called by the New Yorker "of commanding eloquence and power." Back in the 1930's Nordfeldt lived for 7 years at Lambertville House, later removing to a home of his own in Amwell Twp. Widely exhibited in American and European galleries, this is the first time his work has been shown in Lambertville. The Nordfeldt exhibit will hang through April 30th. In the cocktail lounge Jacques Kupfermann of Princeton is showing collages. Serving 11:30 A.M. to 1 A.M. daily, Sundays to 8 P.M. Duncan Hines, Cue & Gourmet approved. Ample parking in rear. PRESENTS REQUESTED

It's Bride Time. Crystal, chine, stainless steel—how many brides on your list for this June? Town Shop will obligingly care for them all.

In stainless steel, the Palmer Square Shop now has a roast-size well and tree platter with feet. How a well and a tree can have feet, we leave up to you. Platter also comes in sirloin steak size, for everybody.

Open salts with spoons are also available in stainless steel now, and so are little framed discs which you may use for ashtrays or coasters. There's a vegetable dish, oblong, with a divider across the middle to prevent integration of potatoes and peas.

Divider can be removed if you want a bigger dish. There is a cover, too.

Flatware in stainless steel comes in two handsome patterns. One, with a gleaming silver finish, has pistol handles; the other, with a brushed finished, has a smooth oval handle with narrow line border. The first is $10.80 for a six-piece setting; the other is $12.50.

A stainless tray is basically square, but its four corners have been replaced by gentle concave curves.

In china, Town Shop offers Spode's "Fitzhugh," a deep blue-purple and white pattern, or "Luneville," with its old-fashioned rose in the center. Royal Worcester has "Blue Spray," which describes it exactly, and the Italian house of Ginori has a white china with a small fruit design, informal as an apple.

In cyrstal, there is French crystal by Baccarat various Orrefors patterns and English cut goblets.

Upstairs, Downstairs. At The English Shop, a wife stays upstairs to choose the Madras jacket her husband will wear this summer, while the husband goes downstairs to pick out a pure silk Evan-Picone suit for his wife.

Those Madras jackets are familiar to you, of course. To them the English Shop has added a viyella-type wool and cotton jacket in solids or muted grey stripes. The solids, maroon or green-gold, look rather like chambray, with a kind of iridescence.

There are also dacron and cotton sport jackets (wash and wear, but we'll take a dry cleaner, thank you) in a finish that looks like silk shantung. Colors are blue, grey or wine. Wool and cotton combines to make a cream blazer with wine stripes, and a cream blazer with grey-blue stripes. Looks rather like ticking.

Tropical worsteds in 5½ oz. weight are offered for summer suits. There are Glen plaids, softer and subtle than we have seen before, stripes and a solid olive green that's only olive if you think of ripe ones. Wool and dacron worsted slacks come in that same olive, and a lot of dark greys, too. There are also Bermuda shorts in solid grey dacron and cotton.

Hathaway ushers in the summer with Aertex sports shirts like the one that's put together with big brown and cream checks. Blue anchors appear on another one. Hathaway's 1959 Paisley is a very bright Paisley: red, blue and green on white.

Summer ties at The English Shop are Sea Island cotton or Madras. And on the same table you'll find cotton polos with boat necks or a three-button collar closing. They are lisle, dacron and cotton or cotton, in dizzy narrow stripes, wide stripes, solids.

Those Evan-Picone silk suits downstairs are actually two-piece co-ordinates, with straight skirts and bloused sleeve tops. There is also sheer wool in cream and blue stripes with straight skirt and weskit top. A dacron and cotton two-piecer has a wide square sailor collar and short cuffed sleeve.

Moygashel linen, natural in shade, has been used for a sleeveless two-piecer with stylized yellow daisies printed on the linen. A tomato red linen (or navy) has two kick pleats at knee-height, a deep V vest and two big white pearl buttons.

For half sizes, The English Shop has cotton and silk dresses in grey, tan or apple green. Three rows of diagonal pin-tucking make a slenderizing top. These dresses go up to 38 in regular sizes, too.

Besides the usual Madras, the

Carrots On The Rocks

Nobody has ever calculated the percentage of alcohol in a glass of carrot juice. And the amount of intoxication available in a swig of blackstrap molasses (unfermented) is certainly minimal.

Nevertheless, The Town Shop now has a set of splendidly healthy double old-fashioned glasses labeled for people who take their carrot juice straight.

"Nature is grand but liquor is quicker" is the motto on each glass. Above the motto is inscribed the contents of the glass: "carrot juice," "celery tonic," "spinach juice," "goet's milk," "blackstrap molasses," and so on.

There's just one thing that worries us: the waggish kind of guy who would buy glasses like these is just the type who might really fill your glass with celery tonic.

FOLK SINGER TO APPEAR

April 17 at McCarter. Odetta, well-known folk singer, will appear the evening of April 17 at McCarter Theatre in a concert sponsored by the Theatre Intime. Douglas Martin '58 is in charge of arrangements.

While sometimes described as a musical descendant of Leadbelly and Bessie Smith, Odetta is primarily known for her individuality. So unusual are her voice and style that she is almost impossible to imitate. Her repertoire ranges from blues to lullabies, and she accompanies herself on a massive guitar slung from her shoulders.

The enthusiastic reception accorded folk singers visiting Princeton last year prompted the Theatre Intime to arrange for Odetta's appearance. Mr. Martin chose McCarter Theatre for the performance because of the interest in folk singers here and because of reports of Odetta's popularity elsewhere. When she appeared at Harvard, Mr. Martin said, more than 1,000 persons were unable to get seats.

Tickets, at $1.90 and $2.25, are now on sale at the University Store. Any remaining tickets will be sold at the box office of McCarter Theatre the evening of the concert.

VIOLIN CONCERT PLANNED

For Sunday Afternoon. An unusual program of contemporary music for unaccompanied violin by Yfrah Neeman, internationally-known violinist, will be presented this Sunday afternoon by the Friends of Music at Princeton. The concert, open to the public free of charge, will be held at 3:15 in Procter Hall.

A feature of the program will be a "Sonata" by Princeton composer Roger Sessions. Mr. Sessions wrote this work in Berkeley, Col., in 1953, at the request of Los Angeles violinist Robert Gross. A work of large dimensions which makes the greatest possible demands, both technical and expressive, on the violinist, Mr. Sessions "Sonata" was first performed in this country by Mr. Gross. The first performance in Europe was given by Mr. Neaman in London in the Fall of 1956.

Mr. Sessions' work will be the concluding one of the program. The first port of the program will be devoted to works by three composers. These will include a "Sonata" written in 1951 by Bernd Zimmerman; "Four Improvisations" composed in 1954-55 by Richard Bennett, and a "Chaconne" by Roberto Gerhard, who was born in Catalonia in 1896 an was a pupil of Pedrell and Schoenberg.

Yfrah Neaman, who made his debut as a concert violinist in 1944, has since won recognition on four continents. His tours have taken him through Europe and America as well as to Israel, India, Pakistan and South Africa. In Great Britain, where he is established as one of the leading artists, he has appeared in all major cities and played with all the leading orchestras.

The 1956 Promenade Concert season at the Royal Albert Hall marked his 15th concerto appearance in London. He has been touring Canada and the United States this season.

It's New To Us

shorts rack has Bermudás in amber, tangerine and grey stripes, solid black, or violet, turquoise and lime check. Evan-Picone's silk blend makes a nubbed fabric that comes in navy or avocado.

A dirndlette from West Germany combines horizontal and vertical stripes in a pleasing manner for a summer skirt. A dirndlette is pleated, a dirndl is gathered. Now you know. Ladies who are not either type may wear a navy-wrap-around in a silk blend. Comes in mocha, too.

Suits that look like silk shantung come in colors like cherry, toast, apple, myrtle, lime and rose. They have soft, petal-shaped collars or pointed, revered collars. Belts on some, half belts in back on others.

Summer at Stone's. The linen shop at 20 Nassau Street has stocked up for summer. Here, ready for the air-conditioned bedroom, are summer blankets from $4.98, in pastels and prints. Mostly they combine cotton and synthetics.

Springfield has 20 percent wool, 80 percent orlon in solid pastels, $10.95, $12.75, $19.95, depending on whether you're twin, full or king. Atkinson's blankets from England are waffle-weave or merino wool. The merino ones come in juicy shades of pale apricot, tawny brown and so on.

For year-round use, Stone's has a nylon comforter, dacron-filled, with elaborate stitching and almost two inches of nylon embroidery for a ruffled border. You'll see it in bridal white, but it comes also in blue, pink or yellow. Extravagantly lovely, but practical to maintain.

If you're a cat-napper, you'll want a neck pillow in blue or pink, light as a doze, with swirls of embroidery on its two-inch border. It's $6.95. Another neck pillow is dumb-bell shaped, with bright paisley or a cat print covering its cotton stuffing. Costs $3.25.

Swiss embroidery, fine and graceful, has been used for the border of sheet and pillow-case in a new Linen Shop set. The linen is white, the embroidery either pink or blue. A single set is $8.50 for one sheet and one pillow-case. The double set, one sheet and two cases, is $10.95.

For the table, Stone's has a fan-shaped white plastic mat with sprigs of roses and pale pink bows painted on its pebbled background. Pink napkins match — a fresh and lovely set for spring. ($9.95 for four places)

Another place mat set, for the family artist, consists of a divided mat with a bunny on one side, colored, and an outline bunny on the other side which the artist colors himself. The crayons are with the set. There is a bear, a woodchuck and a fawn, too.

Crayons wash off, so it is possible to start all over again when supper comes around. Of course, it may be more fun to color than to eat the oatmeal, but what artist ever puts food before art?

ROUTE 1 ACCIDENT

Man Critically Injured. Seventy-four-year old Lewis Tarcoll was in critical condition at Princeton Hospital this week following an accident near Raymond Road on Route 1 Monday afternoon. According to State Trooper George F. Vasler, he apparently stepped off the center strip and into the side of an oncoming car.

Mr. Tarcoli, whose address is c/o Mrs. Ezekiel Dey, Route 1, suffered a dislocated right shoulder and a head fracture. He struck his head on the metal strip over the windshield of the car driven by Howard A. Schurig, 27, of Staten Island, State Police reported.

COUSINS ADDRESSES UWF

For Strengthing UN. Norman Cousins told some 170 people attending last week's dinner of the Princeton Chapter of the United World Federalists that the United States should press for the creation of a stronger United Nations.

Mr. Cousins is editor of the Saturday Review and honorary president of the UWF.

After noting that neither side would be able to "win" a war at this point, Mr. Cousins called for elimination of the veto, expanded UN power to enforce the world's security and strengthing of UN jurisdiction over a nuclear arms band. "This is an insane and irrational world, sick with apprehension at the irresponsibility of the great powers," he said.

The Princeton Chapter gained 78 members at the dinner. Others interested in learning of the UWF program should contact Dr. Herbert Pohl, 11 Chambers Terrace.

K. OF C. MEETING PLANNED

To Honor Charter Members. William Foley and Charles Draine, charter members of Princeton Council No. 636, Knights of Columbus, will be honored at a luncheon Monday. They will be presented with honorary life membership cards.

A gala evening of entertainment is being planned for that night. John Stackowicz, Peter B. Miller and Walter McKee are in charge of the program.

DINNER IS PLANNED

By Princeton K of C. Princeton Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a steak dinner and stag night Thursday, April 16, at 7 at the K of C Hall, 111 Prospect Avenue.

Sports movies will be shown and there will be a pool tournament. Proceeds from the dinner will go to the Council's charity fund. Tickets may be purchased from any K of C member or at the K of C Hall.

MOVE RUMMAGE SALE

To New Site. The Spring rummage sale of the Princeton Hospital Aid Committee will be held at the Fire House on Harrison Street North this year, instead of at the Chambers Street Fire House. The change of site was made because purchase of new fire engine left no space for sales at the Chambers Street Fire House. Proceeds of the sale will go to Princeton Hospital.

The sale will be held Tuesday, April 28 through Thursday, April 30. Furniture, rugs and kitchenware will be sold from 10 to 5 on Tuesday, Wednesday will be the sales day for shoes, toys and books, also from 10 to 5. All other items, including bric-a-brac and jewelry, will be sold from 9:30 to 8 on Thursday.

All donations are to be brought to the Harrison Street Firehouse between 9 and 5 on Monday, April 27. Anyone needing help in transportation is asked to call Mrs. John E. Servis, chairman, at WA 1-7057, or Mrs. William C. Vandewater at WA 4-0656. Those seeking such help are asked to call as soon as possible.

JOINS UNITED FUND

Mental Health Now a Member. The first health foundation to join the United Community Fund following its unification appeal is the Mental Health Association of Mercer County. Final arrangements for the Mental Health group's membership in the PUCF are to be made this Thursday at a luncheon meeting of delegates of the two organizations, to be held at the Nassau Inn.

The action was announced by George J. Adriance, chairman of the PUCF's Budget and Admissions Committee. Stating that the PUCF was very happy to welcome its new member, Mr. Adriance added that there was no doubt of final approval of the action by the PUCF's Board of Trustees "because of the stated policy and invitation recently issued by the Trustees."

The PUCF's appeal for unification was issued last month. It stated: "The time has come to end the enormous duplication of time and effort involved in conducting numerous separate fund drives in Princeton. The United Fund is now ready . . . to conduct one campaign annually for all health and welfare agencies which solicit in Princeton."

SEEK 35-MILE SPEED

Outside Kendall Park. A petition asking that the section of Route 27 between Beekman Road and Ten Mile Run, outside Kendall Park, be designated as a 35-mile-per-hour no passing zone is currently being circulated among residents of Kendall Park.

Plans for circulation of the petition were made at an executive meeting last week of the Kendall Park Civic Association. The petition, which the association said was designed "to correct a hazardous traffic condition," will be sent to Commissioner Dwight D. Palmer of the State Highway Department when the necessary signatures have been obtained.

More than 40 volunteer section captains are circulating the petition. All those willing to help have been asked to notify Arthur Rouder, DAvis 9-8097.

SPORTSMEN PLAN DANCE

Buffet Supper Included. The Italian - American Sportsmen's Club will hold a dance, preceded by a buffet supper, Saturday, April 25, in the clubhouse ballroom on Terhune Road. Dancing will begin at 9 to the music of Tony Mennella and the Ernie Butcher Four.

Tickets, priced at $4, are available at Princeton Garden Center, Sunbeam Luncheonette and University Radio Electric. Co-chairmen of the event are Sam Nini and Jack Petrone. Their assistants are Alex Bartolino, Clarence Di Donato, Felix Perone and Harry Rosso.

AUTHORS TO BE HONORED

The affair will be held in the faculty lounge of Firestone Library. A list of the authors will be available at the reception.

GOP WOMEN PLAN TEA

AGAINST THE CLOCK: Princeton was the scene of a sportscar rally last Thursday through Saturday when more than 60 sleek autos participated in a time competition over 500 miles of New Jersey roads. The start of the trials on University Place near McCarter Theatre is shown above. Among the winners were Dr. and Mrs. Alsdar Olgyay of 87 Deerpath, who placed third for the team trophy.

sell, chairman. Recognition was also given to Harold Blackwell of Hopewell who was the second scoutmaster of the troop. The troop committee and leaders include Stanton Patterson, Arthur Parsell and Robert Tornquist.

THE LONG WAY HOME

By Horse and Carriage. Two Princeton University undergraduates packed their belongings and took off Saturday on a leisurely trip home for spring vacation. But instead of car, train or bus, they went by horse and buggy.

Traveling only by back roads during the day, Eric Grinnell, 19, and Andrew Gaines, 20, made the trip to Mr. Grinnell's home in Rye, N. Y., in just about three days. Why all this trouble to get home for spring vacation? Mr. Grinnell says he wants to "learn what travel in the old days was like, what kind of time they made, and what troubles they encountered."

In case of just such troubles, he took along a complete extra harness for Sammy, the horse, since his present harness is over 60 years old. Another special precaution taken was to have Sammy outfitted with special rubber shoes by Princeton's only blacksmith, Robert McVeigh.

The carriage Mr. Grinnell is using for the jaunt, one of four he owns, is a "runabout buggy" dating back to about 1890. The red and black four wheeled affair seats two with luggage space under the seat.

Mr. Grinnell, who received publicity when he brought his first carriage here in September to ferry undergraduates and their dates around town, has expanded his operation to include the four carriages and two sleighs. He claims it is a paying business, with most of his income coming from giving rides at children's birthday parties.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Of Veterinary Association. New officers of the Veterinary Medical Association of New Jersey will be installed this Thursday at the closing session of the association's 75th annual meeting. More than 250 veterinarians from throughout the state are attending the meeting, which is being held at the Princeton Inn.

New president of the association is Dr. Myron Arlein of Millburn. He succeeds Dr. Oscar Sussman of Princeton. New vice-president is Dr. Robert Tichenhurst of Red Bank. Dr. John McCoy of New Brunswick, secretary, and Dr. Arthur North, Jr., of Somerville, treasurer, will continue in those posts.

A resolution congratulating and commending the association on its 75th anniversary has been adopted by the State Assembly.

The scientific program for the two-day meeting was arranged by Dr. J. C. Blumenthal of Princeton. Included will be discussions of radiography and new methods of animal surgery. A special feature will be a panel talk on diseases of animals which are transmissible to man.

"The program at the meeting reflects the aim of the association to cover all phases of veterinary activity," Dr. Blumenthal said. "These include treatment of small animals, birds, livestock and zoo animals as well as public health and educational activities." Princeton is typical of communities in which veterinarians must know how to treat unusual animals, he added, as many Princetonians have exotic pets such as Sicilian donkeys and myna birds.

Dr. Russell S. Edmonds is chairman of local arrangements for the meeting, which is being held in Princeton for the first time in the 75-year history of the association. Highlight was the annual banquet, scheduled for Wednesday evening. Governor and Mrs. Meyner were guests of honor and entertainment was by the Columbus Boychoir.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the association planned its own program for the two days. Included were a tour of "Morven," the Governor's residence; a bus tour of Princeton University and a luncheon this Thursday at the Nassau Inn. Mrs. Lowell Thomas, Jr., of Princeton, guest speaker at the luncheon, is to give an illustrated lecture on her travels throughout the world.

MARITAIN LECTURE SET

To Be Held Next Wednesday. Jacques Maritain, French author and former professor of philosophy at Princeton University, will give a public lecture in French next Wednesday. Topic of the lecture, scheduled for 5 p.m. in 10 McCosh Hall, will be "La Morale de Bergson."

This is the third in a series given under the auspices of the Romance Language Department of Princeton University, celebrating "Three Centenaries." This final lecture celebrates the centenary of the birth of Henri Bergson, French philosopher. Professor Maritain is currently writing a book on morals in which a chapter will be devoted to Bergson.

Professor Maritain has been a resident of Princeton since 1948. Prior to coming here, he served from 1945 to 1948 as French ambassador to the Vatican. During the course of his career, which began in 1914, he has taught at leading universities in Europe and America. He is the author of numerous philosophical and literary studies, including a volume of impressions of America.

BPW MEETING SET

For Monday Evening. The Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the Peacock Inn. Dessert will be served at 7:30.

Feature of the evening will be the showing a color film, "This Is New Jersey," produced by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Donald Howarth, a representative of the Telephone Co., will introduce the film. Mrs. Adelia F. Benham is program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Marion Kauffman, Miss Beatrice Bowen, Mrs. Helen Kraus and Mrs. Helen Kleiber.

Jittery Over Jitneys

Drivers and police in Princeton Township have developed an understandable case of jitters over the prevalence of jitneys. These little four-wheel scooters, usually made by boys from an old lawn-mower engine, a couple of shaky axels and considerable imagination, present quite a traffic hazard.

"Operation of jitneys on the street is against motor vehicle regulations," Township Chief James Campbell points out. "They may be driven in private driveways only and unless the law is obeyed, somebody is going to get hurt." One man told police that he had clocked a boy in a jitney at 40 m.p.h., on a slight downhill grade.

Boys who own jitneys and want to drive them legally may do so by joining the jitney club that will be established shortly by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. It will meet Sunday afternoons in the Princeton Shopping Center.

JUNIOR FACULTY WIVES

Monday Meeting Scheduled. The Junior Faculty Wives will meet Monday at 8:15 p.m. The session is to be held in the Engineering Lounge of Princeton University.

Mrs. John Turkevich, a lecturer in the Russian Department, will lead a discussion of the novel, "Doctor Zhivago." Refreshments will be served after the meeting by Mrs. David Wallace and her committee.

SCOUTS DIVIDE PRINCETON

Troops Assigned Areas. Princeton has been sliced up into pie-shaped units to give the various Boy Scout troops in the area specific zones of operation. The division was made at a meeting of 14 adult leaders from the six troops and one Explorer post.

The zones will provide a framework for future community activities, such as the distribution of public information, area good turns and messenger services in emergencies. They will be used for the first time in the distribution of 5000 copies of a pamphlet "Home Protection Exercises," for the office of disaster control.

TRADING POST FOR SCOUTS

Outgrown Shop To Help. The Boy Scouts hope to make a profit on outgrown uniforms. Those having old uniforms (Cub, Scout or Explorer) have been asked to turn them over to the Outgrown Shop, 221 Witherspoon Street, which will then sell them for the benefit of the George Washington Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The uniforms must be clean before the shop will accept them and preferably should be stripped of insignia. The shop will continue to accept uniforms until it closes for the summer May 31.

ELKS LODGE PLANNED

Awaiting Charter. Joseph Bader, chairman of the lodge activities for the state organization of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will address the local group next Wednesday. The session will be one of the weekly 8 p.m. meetings of the Princeton group of about 50 men which is still awaiting a charter.

Charles Strehlau of 48 Dorann Avenue is the temporary chairman of the lodge and should be contacted by men interested in joining. Other temporary officers include Otto Young of Rocky Hill, treasurer, and Carlo Parantoni, secretary.

OPINION VARIES: Two long-time Princeton baseball fans, on hand for the Tigers' opener at University Field, were among those asked by TOWN TOPICS to pick the 1959 major league pennant winners. John E. Wicoff of Plainsboro and B. E. Bergesen, Jr., who devotes much spare time to direction of Midget, Playground and Tri-County Baseball Leagues, have different choices for World Series opponents.

Question of the Week

Question: What teams do you think will meet in the World Series this fall and what other teams will complete the first divisions in the major leagues?

Where asked: Downtown Princeton and University Field.

Bill Clarke, 76 Nassau Street, former Princeton baseball coach and catcher with the Baltimore Orioles: The Yankees will win the American League again. They have the best material and plenty of it. Next will come Detroit, and Boston, if Ted Williams plays, or Chicago. The Giants will give Milwaukee a run for their money in the National League, but the Braves should win. In third place should be Pittsburgh and then Cincinnati.

James B. Brown, 23 Quarry Street, postal employee: In the American League it will be the "damn Yankees" again. They'll probably be followed by Detroit, Baltimore and then Cleveland. I pick the Giants to take the National League. Milwaukee will be in second place, followed by Pittsburgh and then Cincinnati.

Joseph V. Gallagher, 40 Chestnut Street, R.C.A. security guard: It will be the Yankees again in the American League, but it will be a closer race this year. The Red Sox will finish second and then Cleveland and Detroit. The National League will be Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

Joseph Gervino, 137 Kochner Avenue, Trenton, barber: In the American League, the Yankees, Cleveland, Detroit and Boston, and in the National League Los Angeles, the Giants, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

B. E. Bergesen, Jr., 196 State Road, President of Personnel Press, Inc.: I never bet against a winner, so I'm taking the Braves and the Yankees to repeat. In the American League, there'll be seven "second division" teams — but Detroit, Chicago and the Red Sox will come closest to the World Champions, in that order. After Milwaukee, the same finish as last year: Pirates, Giants and Redlegs.

John E. Wicoff, Plainsboro, lawyer: I think the Detroit Tigers have been greatly improved by winter trades and have both the ability and the spirit to knock off the Yankees. New York will finish second, with the White Sox and Boston rounding out first division. In the National League, almost the same order of finish as in 1958: Milwaukee to repeat, followed by Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

John Gellner, 18 Witherspoon Street, liquor salesman: The Yankees have always been my team and this year they're better than ever. Detroit, the Athletics and Boston will be next in the American League. The Braves should win again in the National League with the Giants, Phillies and Cincinnati next.

James Kopliner, 290 Hamilton Avenue, policeman: The Yankees, Red Sox, White Sox and Baltimore in the American League, and the Giants, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati in the National.

Mrs. Herbert Stout, 15 Bank Street, housewife: I wish it were different, but I'm sure the Yankees will win again in the American League. The League should build up the other teams to make it more interesting. In the National League, I think the Dodgers will win, but maybe that's because I'm a Dodger fan and I want to give them good luck. The Braves do have a very good chance to repeat.

J. C. Douglas Marshall, Edwards Hall, Princeton University student: I think the Yankees will win the American League. Either Chicago or the Orioles, a much improved team, will gain second place and Cleveland should finish fourth. In the National League, I'm going out on a limb to pick Pittsburgh. I think it's their year. Milwaukee will finish second, followed closely by the Giants and then St. Louis.

Picking The Winners

Pennant prognosticotions, a favorite pastime with millions of Americans, were in the air again this week as the major league baseball season neared its Thursday openers. With close races predicted, particularly in the National League, more than the usual amount of friendly disagreement was uncovered by TOWN TOPICS' Inquiring reporter.

For example, no less than four teams (the Braves, Giants, Pirates and Dodgers) have been named by Princetonians as possible World Series contestants, and the Chicago Cubs are the only team not given a chance to crack first division. In the American League, Detroit keeps the Yankees from being a unanimous choice to repeat, while every team but the Washington Senators has one or more backers for a first division finish.

A year ago, six of the eight Princetonians TOWN TOPICS interviewed named the Yanks and the Braves to meet in the World Series. Calling them correctly were Bill Clarke, James Grove, James Lahey, Frank Maguire, Grover Tash and Robert McHugh.

MORE ADVERTISERS use TOWN TOPICS exclusively than any other Princeton paper. It costs them less per copy, too.

"DID YOU SEE ANYBODY FROM YOUR GANG?" When a boy returns from a three-day furlough at home to the Highfields Treatment Center in Hopewell, he is expected to tell the other boys how it went. "Can you get along with your sister now?" "Could you stay away from the old gang?" These are important questions because their answers reveal how well a boy is learning to change his old attitudes. These furloughs, Sunday afternoon visits and evening phone calls from the family, Saturday evening trips to Hopewell for a soda or to Princeton for a movie, all help a boy to strengthen his contacts with the conventional outside world. The picture was released for publicity purposes by C.B.S. in connection with a recent television show.

"THEY'RE SALVAGEABLE"

The Boys at Highfields. In the Sourland foothills northeast of Hopewell there is a unique treatment center for wayward boys who are "salvageable."

These are boys, 16 and 17, who have never been committed to any state institution, and who have no serious psychiatric disturbance. Maybe they have stolen cars. Maybe they have a history of "breaking and entering" or roaming with a gang and getting into street fights. Maybe they have been constant trouble-makers at school. They are unhappy and possibly headed for serious trouble.

They are at Highfields because some juvenile court judge has said to them: "Do you want four months at Highfields or two years in the reformatory?"

With a shrug, they make the obvious choice.

Highfields is part of the New Jersey Department of Correction and Parole, which, in turn, belongs to the Department of Institutions and Agencies. A boy sent to Highfields for the four-month "course" is not committed. He is sent as part of his probation and he goes back to his probation officer.

What happens in the four months between the judge's question and the boy's return to his probation officer, may change his view of his life to such an extent that he is actually salvaged for the good of society and himself.

"Home." A boy who enters the treatment center, finds himself with 19 other boys and a small staff of six adults. These 26 people live together in the pleasant, isolated stone house that once belonged to Charles A. Lindbergh. (It was from this house that the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped.)

Here, a boy lives as he would in a home. He gets up at 6, eats breakfast and goes off by truck to his work at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute at Skillman. Highfields boys work in the Institute kitchen, its butcher shop and its garden. They do laundry, drive garbage trucks and mop floors and they get paid 50 cents a day for what they do. Work over, a boy goes back "home" and eats his dinner, just like the steady workingman Highfields hopes that he will become.

This regular working day, away from "home", is a major part of the Highfields program: It gives boys the taste and, hopefully, the habit, of a regular life which alternates conventionally between home and job, just like the life of any sober citizen.

It is after dinner, five nights a week, that the unconventional part of life at Highfields begins.

Problems Discussed. The 20 boys at the treatment center are divided into two groups of ten each, some newcomers, some "old boys." Each group meets for an hour and a half with Albert Elias, director of the center. In these meetings, conducted by the boys themselves, problems are discussed, argued about and sometimes even solved:

"How can I get along with my father?" "What's there for us when we get out of here?" "What kind of work do you want to do?" "Why do we have spaghetti so much in this place?"

At some point in the 90 minutes, Mr. Elias will step in to act as interpreter, to tie in several different ideas and show the boys what they mean, to help the group become more aware of itself.

"In this kind of group therapy," Mr. Elias says, "we deal with each boy along with the others; that is, we handle a boy through the group, not just as a member of the group."

In the frankness of these group meetings a boy may reveal much about himself and his past. Invariably, a boy will ask Mr. Elias defiantly, "What'll you do if I tell you something nobody knows anything about?" This is a test question, of course; what it really means is, "Are you on my side or not?" (Mr. Elias, like a priest, is a man who keeps the secrets of the confessional.)

During his four-month Highfields stay, a boy has several furloughs home. These vacations are "rights," not rewards and a boy knows that he will get his furlough whether he has behaved or not.

"We don't want a boy to say 'I'll behave because you want me to and because I'll get a reward if I do,'" Mr. Elias explains.

Highfields itself is like a home, Mr. Elias lives there with his family. (He is the only professional on the staff). The cook lives there with her family and there is an interne.

The boys' relationship with the cook seems to be particularly im-

What's Conventional?

In one sense, Highfields, the treatment center for wayward boys, is a kind of Alice-in-Wonderland world. Here, on the other side of the looking glass, a word may have a standard definition, but an entirely different value.

For example, the word "conventional" to most people, is of disdain, implying dullness, rigidity, lack of imagination. In fact, to call a man conventional is to insult him.

But at Highfields, helping a boy to develop conventional patterns of living is a prime aim. "Conventional" here means working steadily on a job, respecting other people and developing a regard for their property. At Highfields, a boy who is "conventional" is a boy who has solved his problems.

TO DISCUSS HIGH SCHOOLS: Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, will report on his study of American secondary schools at a meeting next Thursday evening, April 16, at Princeton High School.

portant. They help her, argue with her, pour out their troubles to her — and get from her an assignment to dig a garbage pit back in the woods if they have been unruly. This assignment to the "pit" is almost the only punishment, aside from actually being sent back to the court.

A "Test" Before Leaving. Eventually the four month term comes to a close and a boy says he thinks he is ready to go home. He must pass, not only in the eyes of Mr. Elias, but in the eyes of his peers as well, and this is a stringent examination.

"You tell us," the other boys say, "Why do you think you ought to be let out of here? We'll tell you if you're right."

Has a boy developed conventional patterns of life and work? Has he changed his conception of himself, so that he now regards himself as ready for the world? Does he realize that his actions have consequences for others?

The small, close group of 10 boys has been compared by Mr. Elias to Alcoholics Anonymous: a boy helps himself by helping others and the group is ruthless about this: "Why should you go home? Maybe we helped you but what have you done to help us?"

"You may not make good when you get out." These cold words of wisdom are ones the boys know well. There is no automatic guarantee of success in the Highfields plan and the boys are told this. It's up to them to break up their old patterns of living, using what they've learned about themselves in the group therapy sessions.

Highfields is only a scant nine years old (it was established in 1950). Its director, Mr. Elias, is modest about his success and says he wishes it were greater. A five-year-study made by an independent agency, compared Highfields boys with similar boys who had gone to standard reformatories. According to the study, fewer Highfields graduates get into trouble.

"We try hard," Mr. Elias says, "but we can't guarantee success."

CONANT TALK SET

For Next Thursday Evening. A report on secondary school education in the United States will be given next Thursday evening, April 16, by Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University. Dr. Conant, who will emphasize New Jersey high schools in his talk here, will speak at a public meeting scheduled for 8:15 in Princeton High School. The meeting is being jointly sponsored by the High School, its PTA, and Educational Testing Service.

Dr. Conant, former U. S. ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany, has recently concluded a series of personal visits to schools in 20 states. During this study, which was sponsored by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, he conducted extensive research into secondary school systems. He is now making speaking appearances in each of these states to bring his findings before the public.

In discussing Dr. Conant's report, John W. Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corporation, said, "The distinctive feature of Mr. Conant's contribution is that he has come forward with a positive and constructive approach. He emphasizes over and over that our average schools can become good schools, and our good schools excellent, by a series of steps easily grasped by any informed American."

TO HOLD REGISTRATION

For Lawrence Township Schools. Registration of all children who plan to enter the kindergarten of Lawrence Township Schools next September will be held next week. All parents of children who will be 5 years old on or before November 30 are asked to bring their children to the various schools for registration.

The schedule will be as follows: Eldrige Park School, Monday, 9 a.m.; Slackwood School, Tuesday, 9 a.m.; Lawrenceville Elementary School, Wednesday, 9 a.m., and Number Four School, Thursday, 9 a.m.

Miss O. Marion Halliday and Mrs. Myrtle B. Coxon, school nurses, assisted by the present kindergarten teachers, will be in charge of the registration. Health information to be checked will include vaccination against smallpox, diphtheria immunization and polio inoculations. All children entering the schools must have these immunizations, unless there is objection due to religious beliefs or for specific health reasons, upon the advice of the family physician.

SPRING CLASSES OPEN

At Princeton YWCA. Registration is now open for the Spring term of classes and activities at Princeton YWCA. Courses will start Monday and continue for 10 weeks.

A class in tennis is now being offered in addition to the courses previously available. Continuing classes are art, modern dance, sewing, slimnastics, party cooking, foreign languages, English, bridge and guitar playing. There will also be a special feature for Junior High members, "Adventures in Music."

All those interested in enrolling were urged to sign up as soon as possible. "Our adult registration tripled during the winter term," said Mrs. Elizabeth S. Sargent, executive director. Further information on the various courses may be obgained at the YWCA, Avalon Place.

NURSES FROM ABROAD

Recruited for the Hospital. Pamela Roe is a young English nurse who is also a salesman, a recruiting sergeant and a good-will ambassador from Princeton Hospital.

As a result of her work in these areas, the Hospital has recently added four new English nurses to its staff, making a total of eight foreign-born girls who now alleviate in a most delightful way the Princeton nursing shortage.

Miss Roe became a salesman last fall when she went back to England for her first visit since coming to Princeton Hospital in 1956. She planned a three-week vacation. But John Kaufmann, hospital administrator, and Miss Mollie Hall, superintendent of nurses, hit upon the idea of asking Miss Roe to extend her vacation in the interests of the hospital's nursing staff.

So, when Miss Roe arrived in England she placed ads in the London Times" and the "Daily Telegra describing Princeton, its hospital and the advantages of working in both. She received 27 repl and as they came in, she weeded out the undesirables and told the rest to write Miss Hall. The result: four new, eager young recruits.

The newest of the group is Jacqueline Noble who arrived at the hospital from the "Queen Elizabeth" last Wednesday afternoon just in time to slip into the group photograph that appears on this page.

A graduate of Hammersmith Hospital, London, Miss Noble answered the ad in the Daily Telegraph because her mother pointed it out to her and said, "Why not?" The tall auburn-haired Londoner has never been in this country before and could only say, in comment, "I haven't caught my breath yet."

FROM LANDS BEYOND THE SEA: The nurse shortage at Princeton Hospital has been considerably relieved by these eight foreign-born nurses, all of whom have come to the hospital within the last three years. The girls are, front row left to right, Pamela Roe, Denise Challis, Daphne McV. Updyke, Gillian Grist; back row, Jacqueline Noble, who arrived in Princeton from England half an hour before this photograph was taken, Jane Barclay, Mallie Hall, superintendent of nurses of Princeton Hospital, Elsa Dahl and Simone d'Hooghe. Miss Challis and Mrs. Updyke wear dark belts with buckle insignia that identify the hospitals at which they trained.

Gillian Grist of London saw Miss Roe's ad in the Times and decided it would be fun to do something new. She has been in Princeton since February 9, making occasional excursions to New York and enjoying, as she puts it, "anything that's going."

Another February arrival, Denise Challis, had known Miss Roe before when they did midwifery together at Queen Charlotte's in London. Miss Challis had planned to become a licensed midwife, but she saw the ad, met her old friend once more and decided to come to Princeton instead.

One Speaks Seven Languages. The fourth nurse recruited by Miss Roe is Simone D'Hooghe, Belgian born, but now a British subject. Blonde and hazel-eyed, Miss D'Hooghe has a wide background that extends beyond her nursing studies.

She was graduated from the Edith Cavell School of Nursing in Brussels. Then she spent some years at the Universities of Rome and Florence studying Italian literature and art. Later she went to Madrid to continue her language studies and finally she went to London.

She is fluent in seven languages and is now studying Russian in Princeton with Mrs. John Turkevich, "just because I like it." She also discovered, upon coming to Princeton, that family friends, the Oppenheim-Erreras, were residents here.

Besides Miss Roe, and her recruits, there are three other foreign-born nurses who have come to Princeton in recent years. One new arrival is Elsa Dahl, black-haired, dark-eyed young Norwegian who came to Princeton because she has friends here.

A former flight nurse with the Norwegian Air Force, Miss Dahl also served for two and one-half years in the Norwegian Army. Unlike many of the other nurses, she has had specialized psychiatric and orthopedic training.

Jane Barclay, London-trained, came to Princeton because she had become acquainted with the town on a trans-continental trip in 1956 and decided that if she ever came back to the States, she would come to Princeton to live. She has nursed in hospitals in Bermuda and in Chili.

Daphne McVeigh Updyke, from County Donegal in Ireland, came to Princeton in 1957 because she had relatives here. Since her arrival, she has married (in January, 1959, to Elmer Updyke) and become a housewife as well as nurse. The Updykes live near Robbinsville.

"So Many Advantages." The nurses who have come to Princeton seem to have adjusted themselves fluidly and happily. Dark-haired Miss Barclay says that she enjoys "the resources of the Character

The moment a Cadillac comes into view it begins to say wonderful things about the man at the wheel. It tells of his fine taste . . . his good and practical judgment . . . his achievements in his chosen field. And the reasons for this are found in the character of the car itself. For longer than fifty years, goodness has been the watchword; craftsmanship the creed. In the lexicon of motordom —Cadillac is the world's best synonym for quality!

Princeton campus." And then she adds, "I've made lots of friends since I've been here . . ." and one is left with the impression that the resources she enjoys are not wholly those of lecture and concert hall.

Miss Roe, who came to Princeton under the sponsorship of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stoddard, 41 Stanworth Lane, has also found a pleasant extra-curricular life, and so, in her brief stay, has Miss Grist.

Professionally, the transition is not difficult, although British and American hospitals often have different names for the same drugs and the same processes. The difference seems to lie mostly in areas of responsibility.

"We do more practical work in England," said one nurse. She was referring, not to so-called practical nursing, but to such things as arranging diets or doing dressings, neither of which is done by nurses in American hospitals. American practice is more limiting in this regard than British practice.

Miss Challis feels that the nursing shortage has made American hospitals more efficient. "You have to work out short-cuts because you haven't got the people," she observes. "Things are quicker here; you have modern conveniences that English hospitals are just beginning to think about. And of course, you have hospital aides. We don't have them much at all in England."

The nurses, who enter the United States under the sponsorship of the hospital, agree to stay for one year. After that, their contracts can be re-negotiated.

"SAFE DRIVING WEEK"

To Begin April 17. The yearlong effort of the Student Council of Princeton High School to promote traffic safety will reach its climax with "Safe Driving Week," which will begin Friday, April 17. Municipal officials from the Borough and Township are cooperating in the project.

The safe driving program of the Student Council was inaugurated following a fatal accident last June involving five high school students. Martin McGuinn of Shady Brook Lane is chairman of the student Safe Driving Committee and Miss Barbara Bowers of Mercer Road is vice chairman.

A student assembly on April 17 will mark the start of "Safe Driving Week" at the High School. A skit prepared by a "Hot Rod" club will be presented, as well as a mock trial of the Student Court. There will also be a series of exhibits and a poster contest.

The student committee has also requested ministers in the Princeton area to devote their sermons on Sunday, April 19, to the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," as it pertains to automobile driving.

To Present Awards. The campaign in the High School will culminate with the presentation in June of safe driving awards to a boy and a girl. The awards have been created on a permanent basis by the Student Council as a memorial to the three high school pupils who were killed in the June accident.

Qualifications for the award are six months of driving, a minimum score of 80 on the state written examination for a license, and the absence of violations. Nominees will be interviewed by administrative and Student Council officers before a decision is reached.

Members of the school administration and teaching staff, including Miss Jeanne Wright, assistant principal, Joseph M. Jingoli, Jr. and George Povllaitis, have been assisting the Student Council committee. Members of the committee, in addition to Mr. McGuire and Miss Bowers, are Miss Judith Davis, Richard Hurford, Miss Pat Lyon, Theodore Merritt, Miss Eleanor Pinelli, Arnold Skaer and Miss Nancy Strayer.

Discussing the safe driving observance, which will begin April 17, are Borough Police Chief Raymond Mondone, Miss Barbara Bowers, vice-Chairman of the student Safe Driving committee, and Martin McGuinn, chairman. Miss Buckman's car is 27 years old and has traveled over 100,000 miles.

Report from THE MAYOR

Thursday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will be held on Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. These informal sessions will also be held on the remaining Thursdays in April and, as usual, no appointment is required. If this week's visitors would plan to drop by before 9 p.m., the Mayor might be able to spend a few minutes at the public reception for Princeton's many authors, a highlight of National Library Week.

Worldwide Concerns. The Mayor's calendar last week reflected the interest of many Princeton residents in the problems of people the world over. On Thursday evening, Norman Cousins, the editor of the Saturday Review, spoke at a meeting sponsored by the local organization of United World Federalists. Mr. Cousins described a recent visit to Berlin and drew upon his wide contacts with people around the world in expressing the hope that peaceful solutions might be found to the mounting tensions among nations.

Preparation For Survival. On Friday morning in Washington, the Mayor participated in a thought-provoking meeting relating to government plans to cope with man-made and natural disasters. It was strongly suggested that at all levels of government, plans must be made to deal with a host of staggering problems made disturbingly real by the present state of military weapon-making and the postures being taken by antagonistic governments at the international level.

The Best Defense. It seems obvious that the best defense against nuclear warfare is to arrive at some means of peaceful and constructive negotiation that will prevent their use. The alternative described at the Washington meeting is bleak indeed.

The people of Princeton could hardly relish the thought of underground living or of a general evacuation that might last, according to one military expert, for "at least 100 years." It is hoped that increasingly the American people will be told the cold facts about these problems.

They have never flinched nor became hysterical in the face of great danger. In fact, they would doubtless demand more opportunity to convince the people of the world of our basic interest in peace and freedom and a better life for people everywhere.

People to People. The Mayor's Saturday calendar brought him close to people who are doing a selfless service to people around the world most in need of help. Princeton was picked as the site for the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the Damien-Dutton Society.

This program, founded by a Catholic layman serving in the U. S. Marines, has grown into one of the major humanitarian services. As one speaker pointed out, this is one area in which American interest is not suspect; the care and treatment of lepers in colonies where no one had cared before. The Saturday program was an honor for Princeton.

UJA SPEAKER: Yehuda Hellman, foreign correspondent and political analyst, will be guest speaker next Thursday at dinner at Nassau Inn marking close of 1959 UJA campaign.

UJA DINNER SCHEDULED

To Be Held April 16. The major part of the 1959 campaign of the Princeton United Jewish Appeal will be brought to a close at a dinner next Thursday, April 16, at the Nassau Inn. Herbert J. Kendall of Heather Lane is dinner chairman.

Guest speaker at the dinner will be Yehuda Hellman, political analyst of Middle East affairs who has been a foreign correspondent in London, Paris, Beirut, Basel and Damascus. Mr. Hellman, one of two reporters accompanying the Anglo-American Inquiry Commission in Palestine, was arrested by the Arabs and was released only at the intervention of James McDonald, then American ambassador.

Other speakers at the dinner will include Prof. Seymour Bogdonoff, vice-chairman of the campaign, and Dr. Henry Abrams. Mrs. Irving Vine, chairman of the Women's Division, will discuss plans for that division's campaign, which will begin the end of May.

PTA FAIR PLANNED

For May 9 in Plainsboro. The Plainsboro PTA will stage a fair Saturday, May 9, from 11 to 5 on the school grounds.

Theme of the fair will be "Out of Space." There will be carnival rides, a celebrity auction, athletic events and games. Refreshments will be sold as well as items from the bazaar table.

SMITH CANDIDATES MEET

At Home of Mrs. Cook. A group of 21 girls from the Princeton area who are candidates for entrance to Smith College next Fall were entertained at a breakfast meeting last week at the home of Mrs. Peter Cook, Heathcote Farm, Kingston.

Also attending were 21 Smith students from this area. The breakfast, given on behalf of the Princeton Smith College Club, was arranged so that the candidates could meet some of those already at Smith.

Assisting Mrs. Cook as hostesses were Mrs. Robert Lessing, club president; Miss Florence Snow, Mrs. John Thornley, Mrs. Kester Pierson, Mrs. William Schulter, Mrs. Klaus Florey, Mrs. Howard deLong and Miss Helen Stokes.

PRIZE WINNER TOURS PLANT: Peter Vajk (left), 16-year-old Princeton High School senior who won a Westinghouse-sponsored national Science Talent Search scholarship, visits Westinghouse Lamp Division in Bloomfield. Fred Farnsworth, Westinghouse engineer who took Pete on tour of the plant's manufacturing operations, is showing him a large light bulb of the kind used in street lighting.

PEOPLE In the News

SCIENCE SKILL WINS

For Princeton High Student. From dinosaurs to nuclear bombs is a big jump, but Peter Vajk, 16-year-old senior at Princeton High School, covered the ground in only four years. The jump was a big one for Peter in other ways, too. His research paper on radioactivity won fifth place in the nationwide Science Talent Search sponsored by Westinghouse Electric Corp. and netted him a $3,000 scholarship which he will use at the California Institute of Technology.

The dinosaurs came into the picture in 1955 when Peter, starting early on his prize-winning career, entered the Greater Trenton Area Science Fair. His project was a clay model exhibit showing the evolution of dinosaurs and it won third prize. As soon as the Science Fair was over, Peter started on his paper for the Westinghouse contest, and he's been working on it ever since.

Peter said that his paper developed the theory that nuclear bomb fall-out could speed up evolution of the human species and possibly lead to a higher type of man. He explained that he reached this conclusion by correlating periods of rapid evolution with periods of intensive mountain building and volcanic activity by means of radioactivity. Peter said he found ample evidence that the rate of evolution depends upon the intensity of radiation.

Another angle of Peter's interest in science was shown last summer when he was selected for a special assistantship at the Cities Service Product Development Laboratories in Crenbury. He has also won many honors at Princeton High School, where he is top male student, editor of the school paper, and a delegate to the student government. In addition, he has played cello in the student orchestra and had a leading role in the recent student production of "The Lark."

Father is Geophysicist. Peter comes by his talent for science naturally, as his father, Raoul Vajk, is a geophysicist with the Standard Oil Co. His sister, however, developed other interests and is a student of history and literature at Cornell University.

The family lives on Wallace Road in Princeton Junction.

Mr. Vajk is Hungarian and Mrs. Vajk is an American, which provides Peter with an unusual dual heritage. Born in Hungary, he came to the United States at the age of 3. While he remembers very little of his life in Europe, he can speak Hungarian fluently.

"I'm afraid my Hungarian has a rather strange accent, though," Peter added with a smile. "You see, my mother comes from Houston, and I've ended up speaking Hungarian with a slight Texas drawl!"

Miss Helen E. Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, has been elected vice-chairman of the Mercer County Library Commission for 1959. She is on the staff of the University Library.

James W. Kennedy, 57 Balsam Lane, has been initiated into the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. His parents are Dr. and Mrs. John L. Kennedy.

Mayor Raymond F. Male, 76 Cedar Lane; Lawrence O. Houstoun Jr., 217 Nassau Street; and Daniel L. Goldy, Grover Avenue, participated in the American Society for Public Administration national conference in Trenton. Mayor Male is president of the Civil Service Commission, with Mr. Houstoun serving as Rehabilitation Commission director and Mr. Goldy as assistant commissioner of the Labor and Industry Department.

W. Frederick Stohlman, 11 Edgehill Street, spoke to Trenton Society of Architects on "Baroque Space" at the group's meeting this week. Professor emeritus in the University's art and archaeology department, he is also a retired professor of history of art.

C. H. Steelman Jr., Clarksville-Port Mercer Road, will be the official representative of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society at the inauguration of Dr. Mason W. Gross as 16th president of Rutgers University May 6. Mr. Steelman is president of the society. Raymond E. Judd Jr., 26 Library Place, will be the official representative of Trinity University in San Antonio, Texas.

Acting Cpl. Austin P. Sullivan, Jr., is serving with the Second Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Cpl. Sullivan is the son of Mrs. Charles K. Agle of 236 Nassau Street.

THE FIRST STEP: Samuel Pilsbury surveys his new lumber shed at the Building Center at Princeton Junction, which heralds the beginning of a $10,000 remodeling. Finishing lumber, trim and molding will stand on end in the new racks, thus keeping the dust off and making them more accessible. Large sliding doors will cover both sides of the shed. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

BUSINESS In Princeton

FACELIFTING UNDER WAY

At Building Center. The Princeton Building Center has started a $10,000 remodeling project designed to "bring it up to date." A new shed for finishing lumber, the first part of the project, has already been completed, and owner Samuel Pilsbury is busily working on the rest of the plan.

Although no new buildings will be added, the main building will be completely remodeled inside, and a major relocation will take place in the yard. Even the new lumber shed, which will put trim and moldings on end rather than flat, is simply a new rack built under and old roof.

Mr. Pilsbury, who bought the Princeton Junction lumber and building supply company from Connover and Emmons last October, will have the interior of the store completely done over to give four demonstration areas, a planning room and new office space. Also, new lighting and fixtures will be installed.

The special display areas will include two for exterior displays, a model kitchen, and a special set of door samples. Charles K. Agle, whose offices are at 10 Nassau Street, is serving as architect for the interior remodeling.

In the yard, the changes will facilitate faster and more efficient lift-truck loading of materials, and an attempt will be made to center all the fast moving items in the courtyard around the main building. The project also calls for a 50-foot canopy to extend from the store to the new shed, and for putting the mill back into operation, according to Mr. Pilsbury.

To go along with the remodeling, the Building Center will add several new lines and expand stocks in others. It will carry a well-known line of kitchen cabinets, so that a purchaser of one of the Center's packaged homes (see page 29) will get these included in the price of materials. The Center will also carry more short pieces and "take-it-with-you" items in the lumber and plywood lines.

Mr. Pilsbury started the business six years ago in Middlebush, where he has a lumber yard and building center. Coincidentally, the two carpenters supplied by L. C. Bowers and Son, Dave Smith of Griggstown and Fred Bergman of Princeton, both worked on Mr. Pilsbury's first job in Middlebush.

Although he has an architect for the remodeling of the store, the Building Center owner is doing the yard planning himself for the most part. The new shed for stacking lumber was his own design.

NEWS SERVICE SOLD

In Business 29 Years. Princeton News Service has been sold and its three former owners are now able to sleep past 3 a.m. for the first time in 29 years.

The enterprise was founded in March, 1930, by Louis Schleifer, 82 Jefferson Road, and Julius U. Peskin, 34 Linden Lane. They were joined in 1949 by Benjamin Miller who lives at 253 Hawthorne Avenue.

The service has been purchased by Allan Ahrens of Yardley and Michael Miliotis of Trenton, owners of other newspaper distributing businesses located in Yardley, Levittown and Morrisville. The two new owners are considering the sale of their other outlets so they can concentrate on Princeton.

The News Service started in 1930 with two trucks, five employees, a Sunday delivery of 3,000 papers and a small location on John Street where Kopp's Cycle Shop is now located. In successive steps, Princeton News Service moved to Chambers Street, Tulane Street and finally to the present Witherspoon Street location.

The service now employs 25 persons, maintains a fleet of nine trucks and handles a Sunday delivery of almost 12,000 papers. The business grew so large that it was divided in 1955 and Flory Tolo formed the Nassau News Service, which serves homes east of Witherspoon Street.

PEUGEOT WAGON DUE

Will Be At Lahiere-Kane. The Peugeot 403 station wagon, a French vehicle which is making its American debut this week at the International Automobile Show at New York Coliseum, will soon be shown at Lahiere-Kane, Inc., 15-27 Spring Street.

The Peugeot station wagon, which has the longest wheelbase of the imported station wagons now on the American market, can accommodate six passengers. It has lines and equipment similar to the Peugeot 403 "sportsedan," and the same four-cylinder, 65 horsepower engine, but the transmission is heavier. Price will be $2,490, East and Gulf Coast ports of entry.

WEEKEND OF BASEBALL

Three More Games On Top. The last three contests in a busy week confront the Princeton baseball team as the final preparation for the 1959 Ivy title. The Tigers will be at home this Thursday at 3 to face City College of New York, will help Rider College dedicate its Lawrenceville baseball diomond on Friday and entertain Georgetown at University Field Saturday at 2:30.

The Ivy chase begins next weekend with a pair of home games. Brown comes here Friday with Army on hand the following afternoon.

First Game Lost. Inability to hit in the clutches, a Princeton failing that crops up more often than not, cost the Tigers the first game of their 100th season. They left eight runners stranded in the first six innings; if only three of them had been pushed around, it would have been sufficient.

As matters turned out, Manhattan held a 3-3 tie going into the ninth. Relief pitcher Bill Woolverton retired the first two men to face him but then lost control and the ball game, walking the eighth and ninth hitters in the visitors' batting order. When he wound up with runners on base, they completed a double steal and both rode home on a line single over second.

That took the glamour off a nifty relief job that Woolverton had contributed after replacing starter Joe Burns with the bases filled and none out in the fourth. Before he wenkened, he had retired 15 of the last 16 men to face him. A one-run lead might have been enough to see him through, but the Tigers could not upend some none-too-impressive Manhattan pitching.

Big trouble was the inability of Mike Ippolito and Carl Belz, the power hitters in the lineup, to do any damage. They both went hitless, Ippolito walking twice, but leaving a total of seven runners stranded between them.

Captain Dick Edie had a fine opening day, collecting a walk, single and triple in five trips to the plate and cutting off a run with a rifle pitch to catcher Jerry Sullivan. The Tigers committed two errors but all of the victors' runs were earned—the first coming as a 340-foot shot which just cleared the right field fence.

Joe Burns started but lost his touch in the fourth, when three straight singles filled the bases. Shortstop Tom Frost and third baseman Gene Locks each collected two hits, in addition to Edie.

Tigers Clobbered. Falling back into the all-too-familiar habit of making more errors than they did hits, the Tigers absorbed a 12-1 shellacking Tuesday from New York University. The home forces committed six misplays against four singles, the first of which did not come until the seventh inning.

Herm Belz, short of practice because of the extended basketball season, started on the mound for Princeton but lasted only three innings. Errors hurt him but he was tagged for five solid hits that played a major part in the five runs he yielded.

Wally Phillips, sophomore southpaw, followed him to the mound and showed to better advantage. Better infield support might well have given him five scoreless innings.

As matters stood, he was charged with three runs in the

Trend Of The Times

Off its first two home games this season, lacrosse is ready to outdraw baseball at Princeton. Saturday's University Field doubleheader proved that—after the lacrosse opener had attracted some 300 fans to Poe Field despite a chill wind and temperature in the low '40's.

The three-hour baseball game with Manhattan, a slow-moving affair despite the fact that only eight runs were scored, was witnessed by a scant 100 persons. The thermometer began to drop and the sun followed suit by the time the lacrosse game with Maryland began, but the action-packed contest outdrew the ball game by a 3 to 1 margin. Many in the crowd stood when the small stands were filled.

The needless delays during college baseball games are a major factor in steadily decreasing attendance. Among the moves that can be taken are a limit on the number of trips a coach can make to the mound to confer with his pitcher and a major reduction in the time consumed to warm-up the pitcher and the infield between every half inning.

fifth although he yielded only a scratch safety during the round. Sophomore Larry McAtee then was the victim of a horrendous four-run, three-error ninth.

The Tigers averted a shutout in the seventh when Bob Myslik, reserve sophomore third baseman, led off with a walk and Captain Dick Edie and Mike Ippolito followed with singles. Viewed from any angle, it was a depressing exhibition.

LACROSSE TEAM BEATEN

In Final 30 Seconds. Leading a heavily-favored Maryland team for a good portion of the contest, Princeton barely missed achieving a major upset Saturday afternoon on University Field. It was an 11-10 final, the Terrapins rallying with a three-goal fourth period that erased a 9-8 deficit.

The Orange and Black had a 6-4 lead midway through the second quarter but fell back to a 6-all deadlock just before the intermission. Maryland then went in front in the see-saw contest, but could not hold its 8-6 bulge, yielding three straight goals to the Tigers.

Inexprience proved costly in the loss, although the showing was cause for considerable satisfaction in holding the highly-regarded Maryland outfit to a one-goal victory. With the score tied at 10-all and the clock running out, the Tigers lost possession when they were called for an offside.

The winning shot followed with half a minute left, and there was no chance for Princeton to retaliate. Better protection against Maryland shots would have cut down the visitors' scoring, the Tigers having trouble with the Terps' fast weave.

The Tigers are in Baltimore this week for tough games against two of the nation's top teams. They faced the Mount Washington Club Wednesday afternoon and tackle Johns Hopkins Saturday.

Next week, Navy will be at University Field to meet the Tiger ten. The contest will be the second portion of a doubleheader, following the baseball game with Army.

A HUNGRY NINE

PHS Coach Is Optimistic. Looking more like a pleased father than a traditionally scowling coach, Princeton High School's baseball mentor predicted the Little Tigers will hold their own "very well" this year on the diamond. Coach Harry Zoll, going into his third year at the helm of the PHS nines, claims he has "never seen a bunch of kids hustle so" in his life.

It's a case of "a lot of boys being hungry for a job," according to Zoll. Even some of his veterans from last year's 6-5 season are being pushed hard to keep their starting posts, and the sophomore prospects are good, he reported.

With the opener against Trenton High over a week away, Zoll hasn't come close to settling on his starters. The first intersquad game was played Monday, and the Little Tigers were scheduled to take on the Hun School in a practice session Wednesday.

Even without the final week's practice, Zoll is sure the PHS pitching staff, with two right-handers and two southpaws, will be "one of the finest in the county." Veteran righthanders Jack Hawkins and Bruce Sandvich and lefty Jack Lackey will be joined by John Rogerson to make up a crew that the Little Tiger coach feels will give him an edge.

While they aren't on the mound, the various members of the Zoll pitching staff will probably be filling in other positions on the team. Both Rogerson and Lackey are good first basemen, and Lackey will move to the outfield when neither of them are doing the pitching chores.

Sandvich or Dick Bassett will hold down the shortstop position, while Hawkins and Ricky Hurford are the leading candidates at third. Ed King is pushing Bill Weisenberg hard to get the starting nod behind the plate.

At second, Coach Zoll says Eddie Green, Ray Cranston and Boyd Bergen are all in the running. In the outfield, the competitors are veteran Arnie Skaar, Dick Olsen, Hurford, Archie

BILL MacALEER
Princeton Wrestler

Ever since a surprise triumph in the Ivy League was recorded in 1956, the year formal competition among the traditional rivals began, wrestling at Princeton has had its problems. Succeeding Tiger teams have had trouble reaching the break-even point as injuries and academic conflicts have taken their toll.

The sports draws considerably more spectator interest on other campuses than it does here, notably at such hotbeds as Lehigh, Penn State and Cornell. It was, accordingly, more or less to be expected that one of the East's top competitors in the sport finished his career in Dillon Gym this past winter with hardly a head to note his achievement.

During his senior year, however, 157-lb. Bill MacAleer was undefeated in dual competition. Winning a majority of his bouts by falls, well before the nine-minute matches were ended, he defeated nine opponents and earned a draw in his class at perennially-powerful Lehigh.

Making a strong bid for the Eastern Intercollegiate title, he won his first two bouts to reach the finals and was even in points with less than a minute to go in the championship round. Cornell's Steve Friedman, title-winner in his junior year, then achieved a take-down for two points and a slim victory.

Over the past two seasons, MacAleer, a resident of Lansdowne, Penna., lost only one bout in dual competition, setting his record for two campaigns at 14 victories against a defeat and a tie. Next March, the Intercollegiates will be staged at Dillon Gym and the Princeton faithful who follow wrestling will be wishing that Bill MacAleer was still on hand to represent the Tigers in the 157-lb. class.

TENNIS CHAMPION TO PLAY HERE: Ashley Cooper is one of four professional tennis players who will take part in singles and doubles play Tuesday night in Dillon Gym. He has won the American, British and Australian titles.

Freeman, Harry Steen and Bob Warshefski.

Still exuding confidence, Zoll summed up his squad's chances: "If the ball bounces right, we will have a good season, otherwise it will be average." Noting that the present squad only includes two seniors, he looked ahead to next year, when the Little Tigers "should do a lot better."

PCD SCHEDULE SET

Ball Team to Play 8 Games. Home and home series with three long-standing opponents feature Princeton Country Day School's baseball schedule. The Blue and White will play its first game Tuesday against Witherspoon on the Broadmead diamond.

Lawrence Junior High will provide the opposition on April 21, while the return game with Witherspoon is set for April 28. In May, PCD faces Valley Road at home on the 1st, plays the Township nine on the latter's diamond May 5 and goes to Lawrence Junior High on the 12th.

A contest against Wardlaw School at Plainfield is set for May 19, ending the interscholastic season. The annual Father-Son game is scheduled for Saturday, May 16.

MIDGET BASEBALL

250 Boys to Participate. Over 250 youngsters from 9 to 12 have registered for the Midget Baseball League for its 10th anniversary year, according to B. E. Bergesen, baseball commissioner. The boys have been assigned to 12 teams and are practicing for the league openers Monday, April 27.

The almost-overflow number of boys has been offset by a good turnout of adults, who help as managers, coaches and assistants. Bergesen is especially enthusiastic about the number of fathers who have offered to assist managers for practice sessions and games.

BOWLING NOTES

Tiger Bus Leads "B" League. Tiger Bus went from two games behind Jefferson Plumbing to two games ahead and took over leadership of the "B" League at the Princeton Recreation Center last week. The "B" League also saw a shake-up in the lower rankings as Glenmoor Diner took fourth place with 21 victories, and Edwards Engraving moved into fifth with 20. The National Guard is tied for the number two slot with Jefferson Plumbing at 24 triumphs each.

High games in the "B" league were bowled by Dick Edwards, 237; Ray Simonson, 236; Dick Perna, 175-228-214 (617); Bill Dumble, 196-212-202 (610); Joe Baldino, 225; Jake Bartolino, 224; Jack Lucey, 204; and Phil Wesp, 200-204.

The "A" league reverted to its format of two weeks ago, with Shelton Motors taking a two-game lead over the Knights of Columbus and Farr Hardware (36), followed by Kase Kleaners (32). Mike Plumeri had 204-212; Frank Clements, 212; Bill Sculerati, 209; Frank Deineso, 209; Vince Gregg, 204; and Al Ferrine, 207.

Leaders of both the Tri-County Firemen's League and the Industrial League remained the same after the week's activity, with Bellemead (50) leading the Firemen, followed by Princeton No. 1 (46), and Kingston (44), and with Maier & Baldwin (36) on top in the Industrial loop, followed by Nassau Del (35) and Wengryn Construction (30). Standouts in the Firemen's League were Jack Lewis, 214; Jerry Martini, 210; and Bill Whatley, 209, while in the Industrial League, Andy Drummond bowled 220 and Fred Lehnert had 214.

In the Women's League, Tiger Bus finally caught Town Topics and now both teams are even with 65 victories each, followed by the Betty Wright Shop (62), Dayton 5 (62) and Cranbury Bank (61). Millie Trani hit for 215-191-196 (602), while Betty Cubberley bowled 206 and Irma Mihan, 203.

Cranbury Inn, with 71 triumphs, and Clifelli Electric (69) moved steadily away from the rest of the teams in the Women's Industrial League. Behind them are 5 Jills (62), Deckers (60) and Nassau Service (59). High scorers were Helen Manitinelle, 193; Dot Moore, 183; Eleanor Mansue, 182; and Joan Dunn, 185.

Other top scorers were Pat De Angelo, 203; Walt Cnan, 203; Dick Anderson, 202; George Kirby, 201; and Norman Luck, 201; all in the Tri-County Firemen's League; Bill Soulerati, 201, in the Industrial League; Liz Barclay, 191; Marilyn Lowe, 189; and Marge Kovalskides, 184, in the Women's League; and Marilyn Silvester, 174; Sarah Huneycut, 173-175; and Lillian Burrough, 172, in the Women's Industrial League.

NEW SOCIETY FORMED

In Princeton. Formation of the Ethical Culture Society of Princeton was announced this week. The new society, which will be a member of the American Ethical Union, a national federation, was organized by a group of residents from Princeton and neighboring communities at a recent meeting at the home of Irving Klothen, 215 Mt. Lucas Road.

The Ethical Culture Society, Mr. Klothen said, is a religious fellowship "emphasizing the uniqueness and inherent value of every person." It is uncommitted on theological and metaphysical questions, he said, holding that belief or non-belief in God, immortality and prayer are one's personal affair.

The Princeton Society is planning a series of lectures on the ideals and philosophy of Ethical Culture, under the general theme, "The Faith in Man — A Liberal Approach To Religion." The first lecture will be held Wednesday, April 22, at 8:30 p.m. at Mr. Klothen's home. Speaker will be Howard B. Radest, leader of the Bergen Ethical Society, Teaneck, who will talk on "The Human Community." The lecture will be open to the public free of charge.

The Ethical Culture Movement, which was founded in New York in 1876 by Dr. Felix Adler, has since spread throughout the United States and in Europe. Other societies in New Jersey are located in Maplewood, Teaneck and Vineland.

TIGERS WIN FIRST

Blank Seton Hall, 2-0. In a welcome form reversal, Princeton's baseball team whitewashed Seton Hall Tuesday afternoon for its first victory of the season. The Tigers gave junior Bill Douglas two runs in the opening inning and he made them stand up to the end.

A left-hander who showed solid control, Douglas allowed only three hits and two walks. No opposing runner reached third on him until Dick Edie dropped a fly in right center with two out in the ninth. The next batter also hit to Edie but the Tiger captain tucked that one away to wrap up the shutout.

Princeton's two in the first came when Bill McMillan, holding down the shortstop assignment, opened with a walk and advanced to second on Edie's hit to left. A passed ball advanced both runners and Mike Ippolito's sacrifice fly drove McMillan across.

Carl Belz then singled to right to bring Edie in and that wrapped up the day's scoring. The Tigers got nine hits off two Seton Hall pitchers, three of them in the eighth, but could not increase their margin.

Bon Voyage

A Bon Voyage Coffee Hour for the Rev. and Mrs. Charles W. Marker will be held in the Social Hall of Princeton Methodist Church this Sunday immediately after the 11 o'clock service.

The Markers will leave Monday afternoon by plane for a two-month stay in Europe. Highlight of their trip will be a stop at the University of London on May 13, where the Rev. Mr. Marker will receive his B.D. degree and be presented to the president of the university.

Members of the committee on arrangements for the Bon Voyage party are Mrs. Irving S. Ness, Winfield S. Niles, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Nystrom and J. Guy Woodward.

221,825 New Trout

New Jersey's trout fishing season opens Saturday morning at 8, when streams throughout the State will offer anglers 221,825 newly-stocked trout. These include Brook, Brown and Rainbows.

A particular incentive to fishermen will be a small quantity of Breeder trout, no longer needed at the Hackettstown Fish Hatchery. Known as "block-busters," they range up to 21 inches in length.

The season extends until February 29, 1960. There is no minimum size limit on trout; the creel limit is six per day and possession limit is one day's catch.

SPACE AND SOLIDITY

for $37,500

We can truthfully say that we have never seen a house better built then this one. Planned and executed by an engineer-owner who, judging by his home, should be able to toss off a successful ICBM in his spare time, the house has a perfect layout for almost any family! On one side of the attractive living room are a den, master bedroom and bath. On the other an attractive dining ell and fantastic kitchen are well separated from two double bedrooms and another bath. The basement, which opens on grade level, is planned for a playroom and at least two more rooms and bath, at a low finishing cost for a future five-bedroom, three bath house. The extra features and detail of the house are too numerous to list. We'll just add that all this house is on over an acre of extremely private, rural-type ground in a wonderfully convenient town location, and invite you to see for yourself!
